

Notice on Inaugural Meeting of the IADS Driving Safety Technical Committee & Standard Project Review Meeting

To All Relevant Organizations and Automotive Safety Practitioners:

The rapid advancement of intelligent new energy vehicles (INEVs) has introduced new challenges, with safety and quality concerns emerging as critical bottlenecks impeding large-scale adoption and sustainable industry development. Both domestic and international stakeholders are actively engaged in research and initiatives addressing driving safety, intrinsic safety, control safety, interaction safety, and wellness safety. Ensuring the safety of INEVs is a complex, system-level undertaking that necessitates strengthened international collaboration, knowledge sharing, and technological innovation to collectively tackle emerging challenges.

According to the work plan of the Intelligent New Energy Vehicle All Domains Safety Association (IADS), the Inaugural Meeting of the IADS Driving Safety Technical Committee & Standard Project Review Meeting is scheduled to be held in Chongqing on April 25, 2025. The event will also feature discussions on the following topics:

- Active & Passive Safety Integration Pathways
